- E. As added SOP to Estimalism, SEER returned all joint Soviet-Engarism companies to Mangary on 6 November.
- IV. Regime's mounting economic problems have added to existing dissension and confusion within Party.
 - A. Many Bungarian Communists, spensibly including First Secretary Rakoni, regard "now course" as a fundamental tactical mintake.
 - B. Relieve regime, by following "new course;" is abandoning prolitariat, creating bourgoois conditions in countryside.
 - C. This high-level dissension has added to confusion created in Party ranks by adoption "new course."
 - 9. 95 percent of Party's 864,000 numbers joined postuar --know only postuar Stalinist theory and practice until start of "new course," which was radical departure.
- Y. Regime also facing increased popular opposition.
 - A. The concessions granted to date have only encouraged populace to press for added communicam, give open voice to sati-regime attitude.

- B. Popular resistance is unorganized, passive. Takes form of non-cooperation—absenteeism, shoddy work namehip, withdrawal from collectives, resistance to quotus, etc.
- VI. Noither opposition within Party or among people constitutes a threat to Seviet domination.
 - A. Opposition within Party has no desire to everthrow

 Communist role.
 - 3. Probably believe "new course" is decord to failure, when will be forced to permit return to original harsh policies they espense.
 - c. Papular opposition cannot be transferred into adequately organized movement capable of everthrowing Communist regime.

- E. We evidence that current dissiffection has effected levelty, reliability of army or security forces.
- 7. With two Seviet mechanized divisions (30,000 troops) and three air divisions stationed in Hungary, prospects for any sprining appear small. Attempt would be certain to fail.
- VII. Although present troubles no real threat to Soviet domination, they pose serious dilemma to USER.
 - A. Soviet objectives in Hungary -- a strong economy and a reasonably contented population -- cannot be achieved without full support of people and Party.
 - B. Even if regime decided to return to Stalinist policies (which abandoned in 1953 because they had failed to obtain their objectives) no reason to believe that such policies would be any more successful today.
 - C. Therefore appears that although forces of opposition cannot cause collapse of regime, they will continue to keep regime off balance, frustrate Moscow's aim of
